“ It is with a heavy heart that I write this tribute to a wonderful man, person and all around wonderful person to have in our life's for this short time here on this earth. Lynn was one of those people that others gravitated toward. He always had a smile and his quiet laughter was infectious. Lynn was a hard worker and took pride in his job. You could always count on him for anything we ever needed him to do; tested systems in the tractors, help a co-worker understand about the equipment, company policies, etc. Lynn was always the first name I mentioned for anything new coming down for the drivers to have to do or use. He never complained about what I ever ask of him. He was more than an employee to me, I considered him my friend. He could take me teasing him and smile real big and say "Right". I remember when Lynn told me he had gotten saved. He lite up the room with his glo. His old self was no more and his new self emerged and it was a blessing to me to see this. Lynn is going to be missed at work and in out hearts. He was one of a kind. Until we ,meet again my brother in Christ. Donna Compton

“ One could say so many great things about Lynn. Among those is that he was a faithful friend. Above all, he was an authentic follower of Christ. Lynn and I, and a bunch of other boys, grew up in Dante. What a blessing it was to grow up together, hunting and fishing the surrounding fields/ridges and creeks. What fun it was playing backyard ball or any number of other games that boys will come up with. Lynn and I lost touch for many years following graduation. One day, out of the blue, Lynn contacted me while on the road in Charlotte, NC. We connected for the day and the fellowship was as though we'd never lost touch. That's just how Lynn was. Years later, at our 30th class reunion, Lynn was still the same: humble, honest, and funny. You are sorely missed my friend. And I look forward to the day that we meet in heaven, never again to part.

“ Me and Lynn were born exactly a week apart , and grew up just down the street from each other. From playing backyard football together early on , to hunting and fishing up at the lake together , and eventually joining the Army only weeks apart , our lives have paralleled in many ways. His infectious smile and quiet laughter were always present , and I'll miss that most of all. Rest in peace my friend , it won't be the same without you here.
Love and miss you brother ,

“ We definitely lost a GREAT MAN! Lynn was fun to hang out with . We had some fun times in our younger days. One night with Gary Rogers and Lynn really stands out when we went to the university club on strip in Knoxville. Never been so sick in my life . The last time I saw Lynn at the class reunion we talked about that night an laughed. You are missed old friend. Until we meet again. Love ya Lynn

“ I went to school with Lynn. From first grade until we graduated. He was always the class clown. I never remember Lynn saying a unkind word about anyone. I have lost touch with him over the years, but have always remembered what a kind person he always was. I will be praying for his family.

Rest In Peace Lynn.
