“ My heart has been heavy for your family for 4 years. 4 years ago this week my son was killed in Iraq. Shortly after we got word of Cody's brain tumor. I have kept up with Cody's illness through my son in law. From the glimpse I got of Cody's life through my son in law's eyes, he was a remarkable young man. You should be so proud.

This week has been a difficult one with the anniversary of our son's death and getting the news of Cody. I know you have had a long battle with your son's health and your life has been changed once again. Keep the memories close and remind yourself that you will be with Cody again. Until then, live life as Cody would have wanted you to.

Everyone grieves differently so don't let anyone tell you how to grieve or what stage you should be at. If you ever need someone to talk with I am here for you (I will be sending a card with contact information) or if you want to tell me a memory about Cody or just pray for you. Take 1 day at a time!!!

Thanks for the great testimony Cody shared with our world.

“ I still remember the 1st time that I met Cody at the office. I realized then that his life was forever about to change. I also realized that he was going to college with my son and had become friends. I looked at him knowing that things were going to become very hard for him. Yet everytime I saw him he made me feel better. He was a great young man and while I can not even imagine what you are feeling my heart is so broken and sad that it hurts to breathe. I know that you all have given your life to Cody and his care and you will be lost first for your son and second because you just will not know what to do with your time. I remember how excited Cody was when his Dad killed a deer. Yeah Cody would want you all to go ahead and keep living. He was one remarkable child and I know his time here on earth was cut short but WHAT A TESTIMONY he left. Please know that if there is anything that I can do, please call. Praying for you all. “ Cody was an amazing young man. God used him, and you all through this horrible battle. It is hard to understand, but we know God is in control. Take comfort in knowing that his pain has ended, and he now has a perfect body. Know he is in Heaven, giving thanks to God for each day he experienced. Know he loved you all very much, and would want you to remember good times, fishing, hunting and mowing! May God seen comfort to you all. All our prayers
