

Gordon D. Webster

October 3, 1939 - October 15, 2014

GORDON D. WEBSTER, - age 75, of Kingston, passed away Wednesday, October 15, 2014 from complications of acute dectrotizing pancreatitis. A native of Lebanon, TN, Gordon served in the US Air Force before graduation from TN Tech in 1966. After several years as an executive with the Xerox Corporation, Gordon became an independent owner of several racing/automotive/trailer businesses in the Atlanta area. An avid sport pilot and aerobatics showman, Gordon also enjoyed teaching the art and skill of flying. His most recent passion was traveling with his wife and dog in their motorhome, making many friends and exploring by land what he had observed from the air for so many years. Preceded in death by parents, Isham Gordon Webster and Catherine Leland Todd.

Survivors include: wife of 19 years, Rhonda Farmer Webster; daughter & son-in-law, Casey & Will McGough of Athens, GA; granddaughters, Catherine Linley and Miller Grace McGough; stepdaughter & son-in-law, Aimee and Steve Dukes of Nashville; step grandson, Tucker Wade Dukes and many cousins and kin in the Nashville area.

Immediate family and friends will observe a private remembrance in Kingston. Family and friends gathered in Athens, GA, October 19, 2014 to celebrate his life and will remember him in Nashville, TN, October 25, 2014. A celebration of his life and many adventures is being planned for April 2015 at the Riley Creek Airport in Kingston, TN where Gordon built a seaplane, maintained various aircraft and enjoyed the fellowship of many other pilots. In lieu of flowers, Gordon's wish was donations to Able Flight (<http://ableflight.org/>), an organization helping change lives of people with disabilities by pursuing the experience of learning to fly. Simply enter his name in the "In Memory Of" box inside of the donation page.
