“ So very sorry that I won't be in Sweetwater over the weekend to pay my respects. Jerry and I had a special relationship leading all the way back to the "vampire incident" and playing soldiers in the ditch out back when I was a kid. I always said he was my favorite uncle, and he was certainly the most entertaining. I made the drive to Arkansas in April expecting to see a man broken and devastated by illness. What I saw instead was a dear family member, loved by his wife, embraced by God and fighting an incredible battle with a smile on his face and determination to endure. It was an example I'll never forget. He will be missed. My love to you, Sharon. I'll come see you soon.

“ Remembering the good times. Jarrett will be greatly missed. Always remembering that God is holding you in His righteous right hand and will be with you always. Every time I look out on my deck and see my beautiful plant hangers I will remember the talent and life we have lost until we meet again.
