“ I used to go to Frankie and Bill Hawns house whenever JB was there. We would play cards, usually hearts, and argue about who was cheating. I loved JB. Im so glad I grew up knowing him. He was a favorite uncle for many of us. He looked so much like Jess walker it was like a part of him was there too.

JB told me a story once. He said he was in Kingston TN and an old man stopped him on the street and said, "Jess, Jess walker?" And JB said, "hey, how you been?" The older fellow said, "man you look great! I can't believe you're doing so good!" JB instantly knew the older gentleman had mistaken him for his father who had died years before.

Eventually the old man said, "you can't be jess. You'd be 106 years old!". JB laughed and told him he was his son. The old man laughed too and said, "well you sure had me going for a minute".

I'm sorry I missed the funeral. Im more sorry I didnt know the last time I saw him would be the last time I saw him.

“ I just wanted to say that JB always new how to make me laugh. My children Adam and Daniel loved him very much. I thank him for being in the neighborhood and playing around with all the children and for your family being so kind to every one. I really miss everyone there but I want you to know that your family is in my prayers. There will never be another JB Walker with the personality and caring heart that he had.
