“Mrs. Crossno was the most memorable teacher I have ever had. She was intelligent, witty and full of kindness. She never made a student feel “stupid” or inadequate. Her passion for teaching was obvious even to young and immature high schoolers. I became a more educated, confident and caring person because of her. She was simply the best.

*Love and prayers,

“Mrs. Crossno was, by far, my favorite teacher. I had her for homeroom as well. I went back and saw her several times after graduating. I took my kids to meet her and she gave them such big hugs. I am so sorry for your loss. She has gained the wings she so graciously earned. RIP Mrs. Crossno Class of '80 alum

“I was a student in her Latin class. She used to tell us so many stories and she was very impactful since her classes. She was very loved by both myself and my family. We loved her stories, attitude, cat naming conventions, classroom decor, chalk board eraser (Joe’s old underwear), and her witty sayings. Her family is in my prayers.

“ One of the most beloved and influential teachers I was fortunate to have. I loved hearing her stories and spent countless hours with her before school each day when I was a Sophomore. I loved her and want her family to know she made an impact as a teacher. Prayers and love to the family.

“ Mrs Crossno was my Latin teacher. I absolutely loved her. I loved hearing stories about her kids and her husband, Joe. It’s funny that I still remember his name almost 25 years later because she talked about her family so often. She loved them so much and her students knew it.

She treated us like family too.

It was storming awful one day and we were in her class and pretty scared. There was actually a tornado in Lenior City that day. A few of us had parents that worked up that way. She could tell we were upset so she popped popcorn for us and tried to calm out nerves. She was the best. I can picture her celebrating her birthday on Halloween dresses as a witch. LOL Some of my favorite memories of high school include her.

May her memory be a blessing to her family.

“ I loved Mrs. Crossno, I had the privilege of getting to visit with her in recent years when she was living at Jamestowne. She loved her students, and wanted us all to succeed! But most of all, she SO loved her family and was fiercely proud of them. She spoke of them every single day when I had her for Latin (2 years in high school at RCHS), and also made sure to give me updates on them all when I saw her over the years. Sending love and condolences to her beloved family and friends.

“ What a true joy she was. I know I infuriated her some days, but I somehow doubt she was really mad. She seemed embraced the “old battle axe” persons but I can’t think of a teacher that was more beloved. Looking back she was such an impact on so many lives. Those that said they disliked her just did not understand her yet I dare say. The definition of why people go into teaching. The world was better with her around. My condolences to her family.
