“ Hello Joe when we took you on the boat and you saw a little boat and you said get a bigger boat I will never forget that. Also, when you hit in my car and I’m halfway home and you say surprise and grandma and grandpa and mommy were scared something happen to you I will never forget that either.

“ There are probably a million memories I could share. Justin was known to always have everybody laughing, whether it was by a goofy joke or a quick witty comeback. I remember as kids in Massachusetts he made me mad and I tackled him to a Christmas tree and it knocked over. We have many memories together, even into young adulthood where we made meatballs together, went to the movies together and much more. I will forever miss you, my brother.
