“ When I first met Kevin, when my Mom (Macie) and my stepdad which I thought more of a dad Reuben. I did something stupid one night, in Harriman at Sonic. I think, I was 16 or 17 at the time. Kevin, told Reuben what I did. Needless to say my stupidity got me grounded for a month. It was nice, to know somebody was watching. I didn't even get upset, that I got told on. It showed even know I wasn't biologically family. He treated me as family.

“ After hearing the news, I've tried to pull a memory that captures Kevin but that's impossible to narrow it down like that. I would need a book or better yet, a comedy movie. I worked with Kevin in some form or fashion for about 18 years while I worked for Gerdau. About 12 of those being at KNX RF. I am so appreciative for Kevin during a very turbulent time in my life. During a stretch I was transitioning into a new position within the company as well as going through a divorce and navigating becoming a single parent of two. At work, Kevin was so helpful and easy to go to with questions. Usually, he would crack a joke at my expense (but never hurtful) then educate me on whatever I was unclear on. He was instrumental in giving me the knowledge and confidence to be successful in my new role at work which allowed me to do things I never thought I could handle. Outside of work, Kevin, Mr. Sims and Mr. Hipsher took me under their collective wings and helped me to see that divorce is not always a bad thing and that I could be a single parent, raising successful and happy children. With Kevin's direct intervention he not only helped me become a better employee but he unknowingly helped guide the futures of my children. I am forever grateful that my path crossed Kevin's and that he was kind enough to help me, but that was Kevin. Always helpful and always lightening the situation. He will be missed by any lucky enough to have known him. Thank you Kevin, rest easy.

“ Our thoughts and ware with you all at this time. Will miss Kevin. I remember shortly after Dianna and I were married we were visiting and one morning I was shaving when Kevin walked in and wanted to shave. I think he was about 6 but I lathered him up and gave him a razor. (no blade was in it). He seemed pretty excited about his fit shaving lesson.

“ My deepest sympathies at this great loss. Working with Kevin for almost 20 years was a joy! Right from the start he helped me learn the ropes, answered my questions, got me the information I was looking for, put me in touch with the right person...always with the best attitude, a smile, a good-natured ribbing, a joke. The world has truly lost a fine man.

“ The world has lost a truly great person. Kevin was a great fellow to work with and an awesome mentor. I've never known anyone with the ability to do math so quickly in his head as he could, and his sense of humor made him truly one of a kind. I'll be planting a tree in his memory. My only problem is choosing the right kind of nut.
