“ Lenore has been present my entire life. She was there when I was born and was an integral part of our family until she married. But more importantly she always kept in touch with me no matter how far apart we were. When 9/11 happened, she knew I was working in NY somewhere; my phone rang that day at work and it was her checking in to see if I was OK.

She was as great communicator especially via writing. I don't there has been a birthday or Christmas when one of the first messages I received was from her. Also, when Mom had moved to the nursing home Lenore faithfully wrote her over that long period – lengthy letters that both kept her up to date on what was happening in her life as well as recalling many fond memories of their time together as Lenore grew up. One of those was read at Mom's memorial service that really expressed Lenore's love for Mom.

I just spoke with her by phone a week ago Saturday and said I would call again on her birthday which was yesterday. I am so glad I could speak with her then – it is really a blessing to know that you are able to keep in touch right up to the end.

I will always keep memories of her close to me; she is now at rest with all the other saints who have gone before her. My sincere condolences to Michael and Shawn for their loss; may all the love she had for you both help you during these difficult times.

For those of left to do His work here keep in mind what a wonderful servant on earth He had in Lenore.

“ Lenore was a good and caring person. She was a talented artist and great at crafts. Her home is filled with her creations. She lived her life taking care of her family, first her children, then her in-laws and finally her husband. She enjoyed cooking and decorating her home. She loved animals having three cats at the end of her life who were her "babies". Lenore was a good and loving sister to my brother, Jim, and I. She liked remembering places, people and events from growing up. We enjoyed our times together. I miss her and am heartbroken at her unexpected loss.
