“ I miss her like i've never missed anyone before. She was the only grandmother i liked. I didn't show up to her funeral or anything and now i regret it all. The one who she watched grow up till they were 10 didn't show. I know somebody will see this and they may never know me but they will. I couldn't hold back on this so now I'm doing it for her. 2 days after my birthday and she dies. Broken arm and internal bleeding in her knee and i stand in the afternoon wind listening to her say I'll be safe and i will look down on you. I still her you grandma and i will always. I went back to that house the other day and felt you there with me. I miss you, Grandma. I hope you stay with me everyday and show me everything i need to.
