

Raymond R. (Rick) Loux

February 16, 1947 - March 31, 2019

Raymond R. (Rick) Loux, age 72, of Naples, Florida, passed away on March 31, 2019 after a lengthy illness. He was a 1965 graduate of Pheonixville Pennsylvania High School, where he played baseball, and he was also an enthusiastic supporter of other Philadelphia sports teams. He was an avid golfer and an accomplished scuba diver. Along with his wife Linda, he traveled to many foreign shores in pursuit of the perfect diving spot. His personality was such that, after talking to him for five minutes, you felt as if you had known him forever. Rick was a 1969 graduate of Kentucky Wesleyan College, earning a B.S. Degree in Chemistry. He worked as a chemist for Quaker Chemical, and G.E. He lived in Costa Rica for a time, where he sold medical equipment. Upon his return from Costa Rica, he settled in Naples, FL. and formed his own insurance agency, Rick Loux Insurance, until his retirement.

In 1998 Rick underwent a successful kidney transplant operation, and once his recovery was complete, he and Linda were off and running again. In fact, Linda used to say that he would make coffee nervous. He was always ready to go at a moments notice.

He is survived by his wife Linda (Wyrick), step-son Stephen Botkin, brother Michael (Cheryl) of Pheonixville, PA., nephew Derek, nieces Kathleen and Lorraine, and several cousins. He was especially close to his cousin DebbieClewell (Bill) of Jeffersonville, PA. He was preceded in death by his parents, Raymond and Ellamae (Culp) Loux.
