

Torre Alexander Goldston

December 12, 1991 - January 16, 2018

Torre Alexander Goldston, age 26, of Oakdale, TN passed away Tuesday, January 16, 2018 at his home. He was born December 12, 1991 in Knoxville, TN. Torre attended school at Oakdale, and graduated in 2010. He was gifted in many ways, the most prominent being his artistic ability. He began a tattoo apprenticeship in 2010, and achieved his dream of being a licensed tattoo artist. He opened his own shop in 2015, INKredible Tattoos, and his artistic talent brought people from all across the state to have work done by him.

Torre was a quiet person unless you knew him well, a loyal friend, and someone who preferred to be in the background, but stood out in a crowd. He was a free spirit, unconventional, and a talented artist whose legacy lives on through the many people who bear his artwork. He had recently found enjoyment working with recovering addicts at Freeman Recovery Center in Dickson, TN. He had a large group of friends there, as well as Discovery Place in Burns, TN.

Torre was preceded in death by his great grandmother, Emily Flores, his maternal grandfather Sam Miller, paternal grandparents Harley and Faye Goldston, and uncle Shane Goldston. He is survived by his parents, Jeff and Janet Goldston, grandmother Doreen Miller, and brothers Roady (Eddi) Goldston and Pace (Ann) Goldston, as well as a large extended family and many special cousins and friends.

The family will receive friends at Kyker Funeral Home in Harriman on Sunday, January 21, 2018, from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m., with a Celebration of Life Service to immediately follow. Kyker Funeral Home of Harriman is serving the Goldston Family. www.kykerfuneralhomes.com

“ I remember always getting excited to come up and spend the weekends or go on fun trips with Torre, my aunt Janet and uncle Jeff. We went to the beach, traveled to a few places here and there on small get away vacations and just had a lot of fun together. He always loved to hear about what his older cousin was doing and loved to play games with me as well. We used to play online games together during the week so we could stay in communication with one another when we weren't close by. I still laugh when remembering our first time fishing together when I brought up the choice of bait to him which was chicken livers. He was grossed out by the idea which he was younger at the time and it was a fair point to be grossed out by it but it made us laugh and uncle Jeff laugh as well. All we caught in that pond near myrtle beach was eels which I had not idea how to unhook and uncle Jeff just laughed while watching us two boys fishing up a storm as the day turned to night constantly asking him to help us take them off the hooks for us. I'll always cherish those memories and his memory will live on with me as well. I'll see you again one day Torre and I'll have plenty more stories to share with you.

*"Now that the wind called my name
And my star had faded now hardly a glimpse up in the empty space
And the wise one-eyed great father in the sky stilled my flame*

*For the ones who stood me near
And you few who were me dear
I ask of thee to have no doubts and no fears*

*For when the great clouds fills the air
And the thunder roars from o, so far away up in the sky
Then for sure you will know that I have reached the joyous hall up high*

*With my bloodbrothers at side
All sons of father with one eye
We were all born in the land of the blood on ice*

*And now you all who might hear my song
Brought to you by the northern wind have no fear
Though the night may seem so everlasting and forever dark*

*There will come a golden dawn
At ends of nights for all yee on whom Upon the northstar always shines*

*The vast gates to hall up high
Shall stand open wide and welcome you with all its within
And Oden shall hail us bearers of a pounding hammerheart"*

“ I am posting this message I got last night from Joshua Willmon, a dear friend he was living with in Dickson. Josh has gone above and beyond to help Torre, and we will be forever grateful to him. He also gives us some insight into how the community feels about Torre. ""I want you to know that we had a candlelight vigil tonight at the house and 72 men, men alone not including women showed up to honor your son. I've got a guest book that was signed by some of these guys that I'm going to bring to you on sunday. Our prayers are with you!"

Seeing how much, and how many people cared about our son is overwhelming. We thank everyone who touched his life.

“ I have so many other photo I wanna share, we had so many great times together, we saw the world together and got to experience so many wonderful things and saw many different cultures. Now I'm just here by myself to the point of giving up. Venting and crying isn't helping, memories just bring more pain. Since I heard what happen I've become mentally unstable, just like everyone else that loves you has done. I've been playing your favorite songs and it hurts because we enjoyed them together. I wish I could go back and see you again.

“ I don't know how to keep from breaking down, I'm flipping through pictures of us and I can't hold back the pain that I'm feeling. I won't be the same without you, none of us are dude I'd give anything to see you again and to know you're okay. It kills me to hear your parents cry especially your mom, you were her only son and I can't even image how she feels I don't even know what to say to her. Torre we're all hurt dude I don't believe that you are gone, I hate that we can't hangout anymore I feel like total shit. I hope the person that sold you that poison ends up in the dirt where they belong, because they took you away from us while they continue to live and harm others. I love you Torre and we miss you so much.

“ Torre I don't know where to begin dude, you were more than just my cousin, you were my brother. I miss your humor, I miss the moments we shared. I can't stop fuckin crying dude, I've been unstable since I heard what happen and all I want to do is lay in bed and just wait for this miserable existence to end, that way we could actually see each other again. I can't function in this life knowing that you are no longer in it with me. This wasn't supposed to happen man, we were supposed to grow old together and tell our children about the crazy shit we've done throughout life, instead I'm in this desolate ass room crying over what a wonderful life that is now over. I love you brother, please wait for me wherever you are.

Dylan Hang in there I promise it will get better. I will pray for your comfort and healing during this rough time. I dont know why things like this happen and we may never know the reason but God has one. Trust in him and his timing he loves you and so do a lot of people. God will never put more on you than you can handle with him. Trust him to comfort you right now.

*“ What a sweet, shy spirit your Torre had when he was my student. He had such a artistic gift, one we all encouraged him to cultivate and use. Reading what others have written, I am sure he touched many lives with all his unique gifts. He was a good friend to Clint, and we will always remember him. Our prayers are with your family. Love you much, Jeff and Janet.

“ Oh, where do I begin.. I remember looking up to Torre and Dylan as a kid. I always wanted to be a part of their club, but I was younger so I was excluded for a while. Then came the teenage years and all the hell-raising that is obligatory to that age. We got in trouble together. We had a blast. We did things that I would strangle my kids for if I ever caught them. I never thought things would escalate. I remember how we would look at the harder drugs and hear the stories and say, "That will never be us". I would give almost anything to rewind back to those days and take it all back. To rewind to the first time we ever escalated to something harder. I wish I could find the young Torre, the young Dylan, and the young Macy and say, "Please don't do it." I never thought the consequences would hit this close to home. I just want my cousin back. I would like to encourage.. No, I would like to beg anyone out there who is struggling with addiction to please reach out for help. And please, never do anything alone. These evil drugs, and the equally evil people who push them have stolen my cousin. They have stolen a son, a grandson, a friend.. I will miss you Torre. I will miss the artist who did my first real tattoo. I will miss the times we had, both good and bad. I will miss the funny texts we shared back and forth about the struggles of recovery. I will miss my cousin.

“ Torre was an awesome human being... in so many ways....! Met him at Discovery Place, he went through with my husband and his smile, laugh and love for pranks is what attracted me to him. He was my kind of people... a jerk, haha, but such a wonderful, kind, love for laugh and golden hearted person. He touched many lives, my family included. He was great with my kids and they loved him too! He will never be forgotten and your family will continue to stay in our prayers. -Amanda, Nathan, Austin and Triston Cremeans
