“ Mamaw was the greatest friend anybody could ever have. She loved and cared for so many people. The one memory that sticks with me even to this day, was if you showed up and she hadn't cooked something yet, you was getting something to eat. I don't even remember the brand but she had found this one kind of chicken and dumplings. When I was a kid, she would always say you want some dumpies. And even when I got older Until they finally stopped making them. I could show up anytime and she'd say, there's some dumpies in there if you want them. I'll miss you mamaw. But I know, without a doubt you and papaw are dancing on the streets are gold

Way back when Virgie and I were late teenagers, we were friends and went to Glenlock Church together. We walked home from church on many a dark night discussing young girl things. Love her.
