“Papaw was a soldier. He fought until he took his last breath. Even when his oxygen got down to 50%, he was speaking on his love for his wife, his children, his grandchildren, the church and the entire community. His prayers continued even in his sleeping hours. His prayers lasted 2 plus hours every night as he called out every name. He read the Bible 2 plus hours every morning. This man truly had a double portion. He enjoyed word search puzzles. When he was in the birthing process of his eternal body, he told us he was missing 3 words. Dewey for some reason, understood he was talking about The Pledge. We all recited the pledge of alliance, pledge to the Christian Flag, and pledge to the Bible. He was satisfied and said "a fellar ought to write that down." I said, "I'll write it down for you papaw." And I continued to write it on paper. He had a cold white washcloth on his forehead and looked like a ninja. He said "No", pointed and said, "Write it on my head, on this banner." So, I took my red pen and wrote it for him. Then later he pointed at his mouth and said, "Do I have any words on there?" I said, "Yes, it says. Loved and Blessed." He said, write it in my and in your hands." So, I took my fingers and traced it in our hands. Then, as we gathered around him, He sang Beulah Land. As, he drew his last breath, his face looked like a child jumping into into the water. He took a gulp of air and breathed out his spirit. As I looked into his eyes for the last time here on this earth. He passed through the firmament and is now with the Most High and all of his loved ones who have gone on before. He has parents, siblings, children, grandchildren and many friends and family that have been waiting a long time for his arrival. I know they are rejoicing. This is not goodbye papaw. We will see you again. It is not ironic that you have 6 namesake. Dewey Wayne, Billy Wayne, Tony Wayne, Daniel Wayne, Alex Wayne, Tucker Wayne. It isn't ironic that Beau fell in love with Vacation Bible School this year and that Alex was called to preach. Your life counted for so much! You are patriotic, powerful, and our patriarch. Mighty big shoes to fill. We gotta step up and pray like papaw. praise like papaw, and put our house in order. Love you to the moon and back. Your legacy is Love.
